

Compact PHOTO-FINISHING CABINET

Your entire darkroom with all of its equipment can be folded up to form a compact cabinet which takes little space in the corner of a room, and can be locked if desired. Casters permit moving it easily to a position near a sink. Two sides are hinged at the center and drop down to provide "tables," while a corner section of the top swings back to give clearance for an enlarger.

Note how the door of the cabinet below serves as a support for one drop leaf and how a single leg is hinged to the other leaf, in addition to the use of chains
